

REPORT ON THE RESULTS OF ALL LEGAL ACTIONS BROUGHT AGAINST DENNIS LEE (INCLUDING CURRENT STATE RESTRICTIONS)

Critics are improperly using the record of legal actions taken against Dennis Lee and his companies to discredit his activities, but a true reading of the “much ado about nothing” history of this persecution will reveal that it should be interpreted as an endorsement. Take a true look at this legal harassment for what it really is. You are welcome to share it with you Attorney General and see if there is any disagreement with this report of the facts. If this is inaccurate, surely they will want to correct us on this.

1. KENTUCKY

This is the only state in which there has been any conviction of any civil or criminal action against any of the companies or Dennis Lee, personally since this project began. Right now, Dennis Lee, in a plea bargain with the State of Kentucky, admitted being guilty of failing to register a business in Kentucky. There was no trial, but there was a plea of guilty and a conviction. Prosecution dropped their case to put Dennis Lee in prison for 9 years if they won. in exchange for his agreement to stay out of Kentucky and not do business in the state of Kentucky for two years. To make Lee that deal, how strong do you think their case was? Dennis Lee would have been crazy not to do that deal. Innocent or not, you can always lose a jury trial. Neither Dennis Lee or UCSA, BWT, or any of the dealers can do any business with any resident of the State of Kentucky until March 10th of 2006. This is the ONLY conviction in the history of UCSA/BWT project!

2. MAINE

There was an initial temporary Restraining Order that forbid us from doing what we have never done at a show we did in Maine in 2001. That was followed up with ridiculous charges against our company. These charges included our dealer, who had, actually inadvertently made a mistake on an ad he ran to promote our show. We made a deal with the AG that we would agree to disagree and stop doing business in Maine and none of the citizens of Maine are ever to have a free electricity machine from us ever... even if we do prove the technology in the future. We paid $5,000 toward their legal expenses and they dismissed their suit against us AND our dealer. There was NO admission of guilt on our part. We did not agree not to invite Maine residents to see our free electricity out of state nor did we agree not to pay their electric bill as a result of their coming to a demo out of state.

3. IDAHO

A person who has a mother in law who is one of our dealers complained to the AG there. He threatened all sorts of action, but agreed that under the same deal we made with Maine, he would go away. We paid them $5,000 and none of the Idaho citizenry will ever have our free

In 1999, we were sued for a security violation, because they called our free electricity registration an unregistered security. The claim was ridiculous. We pretty much proved that to the AG involved. They had to save face, so they made a deal with us to drop their suit if we would agree not to put any electric generator on any home in Oregon prior to getting whatever approvals were necessary for safety. We also had to agree to obey all securities laws in Oregon. We thought we had to do that anyway. Of course there was no admission of guilt by any party. No money was involved. We came back to Oregon in 2001 and did our show with a witness from the AG office in the crowd. Dennis read the agreement publicly at the show, and promised that before we would install anything we would get the approval assuming we were successful. Dennis got slapped with a "Contempt of Court" citation claiming he violated the previous agreement. A hearing was set. This was a hearing before a judge with no jury. Dennis missed a plane after the 9/11 caused the flight to be cancelled and the judge refused to reschedule the trial. Dennis was required to do it by telephone when he called the next morning to inform the court an hour before the trial. For some reason Dennis could not hear anything the witness that had attended the show said. Dennis continually complained and the judge overlooked his objections. He then told Dennis that the AG's case was over and he would schedule a time for Dennis to present his case. Dennis requested and got time to get a lawyer. That is when we hired Suzanne. She came with Dennis to Oregon, but the judge would not let her practice even though she had gotten pro hoc vice status. Dennis had to present his own case. Dennis and was to return for the judge's decision and Eric Krieg called the prosecutor and told him Dennis was coming to blow up the court house. In panic the deputies strip searched Dennis before court that day, and the judge was mad. He reamed Dennis and Suzanne on the record pretty bad, and, of course found Dennis guilty. The short story is that the judgement was overturned on appeal and the judge was recused. The AG had to start all over after two years, so we made an agreement to settle it also for $500 per month for 12 months with no admission of guilt. We are making the last payment now (on July of 2005.) There are no restrictions there except that we have to let them inspect and approve of any electric generating equipment before installing it. We're still not allowed to break the securities laws in Oregon. Shucks!

8. NEW MEXICO

The only thing that ever happened in New Mexico was that we were served a Temporary Restraining Order that ordered us FOR THE ONE NIGHT OF OUR SHOW IN 2001 not to do what we never have done. So, we did not do it. That was it. The show was over and we left. That's all that has ever happened in New Mexico!

9. TENNESSEE

In 1999 we did our show in Tennessee. The AG there investigated us, and, in fact, actually attended the show. Then the AG there brought an action against us just like Oregon had originally done in 1999. In the same way, they settled out of court for no money if we would agree not to violate their securities laws with no admission on our part we ever had. We agreed to the deal, and that was it. We agreed not to do what we had never done and they got to look like they had done something.

10. MISSISSIPPI

In 1999 we did our show in Mississippi, and they got a Temporary Restraining Order that did not allow us to do what we had never done, and had no intentions of doing. It was for the one night and the next day it was over. Now Mississippi has decided to harass one of our dealers. As far as we can tell he has done everything right. He also has signed a Mandatory Agreement with us, so as long as he has properly disclosed the free electricity witness program we are not concerned. They wanted him to sign some ridiculous statement that he had done something wrong. If you haven't that is a terrible thing to do. They made a feeble lunge at us as well, but that went nowhere. Just be careful to do this right and we will do all in our power to defend your right to do it. If you do it outside the rules you are on your own! We have heard nothing back for quite some time. We are pretty sure it is over.

11. ILLINOIS

To my knowledge we have been investigated only. We have not been served any papers ever that any of us are aware of. They have claimed to have started an action years ago, but if they did they never served us. We have heard nothing from them for a year since someone from the AG office contacted Suzanne (our corporate lawyer) and wanted an answer to an action that we had no knowledge of. They have never called back so we are just ignoring the call

12. ARIZONA

One of our dealers was very active in getting witness applications there. The AG tried to shut him down and wanted all sorts of contracts and confidential stuff between him and us. He was ordered to send the stuff to the AG. Dennis wrote the dealer a letter that we had a CONTRACT (no law shall abridged the right of free citizens to contract-The Constitution of The United States) and that part of that contract was a confidentiality agreement NOT to divulge that information to anyone, and, if he did comply with the AG, we would sue him for his house and everything he owned. He had no choice. He could not comply with the AG's request and did not comply and that was in 1999. No action was ever brought.

13. CALIFORNIA

Read the book, "The Alternative" for the full version. The long and short of it was that they dismissed ALL the criminal code charges and agreed that the higher courts would decide whether or not we operated a Seller's Assisted Marketing Plan (SAMP) in the state without registering. (a civil code violation.) None of the higher courts were willing to honor their part of the agreement and we were not allowed to withdraw from the deal they broke. This caused one of the most landmark violations of freedom caused by a Supreme Court action that has only been performed ONCE in the history of the Supreme Court, and no one even knows it happened. Having never been officially convicted (the deal was that it would take a decision from both higher courts in California against Dennis to bring a conviction and neither one of them ever ruled against Dennis) Dennis was illegally kidnapped by the State of California and put into prison for two years. The US Supreme Court allowed it to happen. Nothing has happened there since.

14. NEW JERSEY

In 2,000 other states inquired of New Jersey and wanted to know why they had not brought charges against us for violating the securities laws here. That caused an investigation. Dennis and a lawyer spent the day with 6 AGs and they tried to get our confidential list of dealers. That did not happen. The investigation ended and we have had no problems here since.

15. SOUTH CAROLINA

We were investigated in South Carolina when we were doing the 2001 Tour Show. An investigator told Dennis that he was going to come to the show and shut it down. That figured, because some billionaire was supposed to come and fund us if he liked what he saw. We did the show and there were a lot of hecklers, but no law enforcement that we were aware of. The Billionaire sent stand ins who liked the way Dennis handled the hecklers. We still did not get funded.

16. SOUTH DAKOTA

We were investigated in South Dakota. The AG sent an officer to Dennis' motel room with papers a few hours before the show that warned him and informed him of the appropriate laws of the State of South Dakota. He also informed Dennis that he would be at the meeting to enforce them. Dennis told him, "Fair enough!" and meant it. That was the first time we had been treated in a reasonable and responsible manner by an AG. Dennis was impressed. We did the show and did not violate any laws and that was the last we heard of it. NOW THAT'S PROPER LAW ENFORCEMENT!

17. MISSOURI

In 2001, we were investigated. Some of our dealers were questioned. That was it.

18. KANSAS

In 2001, we were investigated. Some of our dealers were questioned.

19. ALABAMA

In 2001 we were investigated. Dennis was questioned hard while he was there. We seem to remember something like a restraining order, but cannot remember. They were so commonplace. Nothing happened afterward.

20. PENNSYLVANIA

In 1999 one of our dealers was advertising free electricity. They actually had written some things wrong and had not taken the proper precautions. Of course the AG probably wanted to get to Dennis, but none of us had anything to do with it. The AG settled for some sort of agreement with the dealer not to false advertise.

21. VIRGINIA

In 1999, on our tour, we were in the local paper warning people not to come to our show because of what terrible thing we had done to Pat Robertson. The Virginia AG was investigating us. No legal action was ever brought.

22. MONTANA

In this state, we were investigated in a joint investigation with the State of Washington. We found out about that in the legal action with Washington State, but Montana never brought an official legal action against us.

CONCLUSION:

None of our dealers have ever gone to jail with the exception of the one we helped Canadian Authorities go after for telling everyone he was there to check out if they qualified for our free energy device, and actually charged them $700 each to make sure they had an engineering survey done before bringing the device at some time in the future, since the USA is first. If you do junk like this we will report you ourselves. As long as you do what you agree on the Mandatory Agreement to do, you should have no problems. They do not want dealers, they want Dennis. If they cannot use you to get to him they will leave you alone. Stopping us (not you) means something. So far, we have spent over a million dollars defending ourselves against all these meaningless attacks. Even in the one place where they finally did get an admission of guilt (and, we assure you, it cost them, a lot of money over a three year battle to do so) they only kept us from doing business in their state for two years in exchange. Our adversaries have spent, God knows how many millions in their actions. They had investigators and all sorts of other expenses, and may have had to use valuable favors to get the results they have. So far, in over 6 years, they have collected $5,000 for Maine; $5,000 for Idaho(who spent and did nothing); $18,000 (when the smoke settles) for Washington; and $6,000 for Oregon. There are still two actions in appeal (Vermont and Alaska) with actions against dead broke Dennis, personally. They have spent millions of tax payer money to get $34,000 by the end of four years from now. They have done it all in the name of consumer protection without one consumer complaint anywhere. They have managed to turn this travesty of misuse of funds into a public relations victory, because no one wants to take the time to check out what is really going on, and would never suspect that so many AGs would put so many resources into chasing a shadow. This is merely the appearance of impropriety. There is a grave injustice, but it is not what the critics would have you think. We challenge them to refute any of this. In fact, we have got to be the most squeaky clean operation ever, having endured so much attempt to find a speck of wrong doing. No wonder we keep going in spite of their attempts to “put us away!” They certainly have been incompetent, but not so incompetent that they could not have gotten something if there were anything to get! They’re merely trying hard to serve their big business masters!

IT IS RECOMMENDED, AT THIS TIME, THAT ALL UCSA DEALERS AND THEIR ASSOCIATES NOT CONDUCT ANY BUSINESS IN VERMONT AND ALASKA WHILE OUR APPEALS

ARE UNDERWAY. OF COURSE, NO ONE IS TO DO ANY BUSINESS WITH KENTUCKY RESIDENTS AT ALL! THE COMPANIES, AS WELL AS DENNIS LEE, HAVE AGREED NOT TO DO BUSINESS IN MAINE AND IDAHO. We will get plenty of justice there just after we PROVE our free electricity technology and their Attorney Generals have to explain to the citizens why they cannot have our technology even after it has been proven. Perhaps if they apologized (and resigned from public office) we would let the people there have the technology... if the people want it of course.
